Thinking Out Loud

By CARL STARKEY

One of the most startling manifestations of mass fanaticism that is exhibited every year on the American scene will occur this week when men and women, boys and girls, hale and hearty and week and infirm begin the annual exodus from homes and firesides in search of the wily trout. For months to come the epoch-making events transpiring in Asia, Europe and the capitols of the world will be relegated to the status of the commonplace while an army of anglers regale one another with elaborate treatises on the respective merits of flies, rods, streams, lakes and "the one that got away." Staid and proper citizens, ordinarily the ne plus ultra of conservatism, will throw moderation to the four winds and spend days patrolling fishing spots stalking their limits with unparalleled vigor and enthusiasm. Groups of fishermen having nothing in common but a love of fishing, will be joined together in a common bond of fellowship, exceeded only by an intense rivalry that equals that of any other sport in the world.

This unique and typically American phenomenon has been a constant source of discussion among philosophers, psychologists and medical scientists who attempt to explain why the sport has such a tremendous hold on the fishing fraternity. It cannot be the thrill of deftly placing a lure in front of a trout in such a way that it will be tempted to snatch it and then maneuvering a rod and reel until the trout is safely ensconced in a basket. For even that highly skilled art would become tiresome and monotonous when repeated day after day, year after year. The exhilaration of the atmosphere and the aesthetic satisfaction from the sylvan beauty of the mountains is available all the time. The deep and underlying reason for the love that fishermen have for their sport which transcends even the physical aspects of fishing, then, is the state of mind which accompanies every expedition. When a fisherman patiently casts for an elusive trout and the subsequent battle ensues, his cares, trials and tribulations are forgotten. He is at peace with the world.

All the current antics and posturings are evidently symptomatic of a mass retreat to find refuge from the thousand and one disagreeable things in life that a person meets every day. A retreat to the care-free and happy days on the banks of a stream where life seems secure.

A robust mental condition protects against—hyper-sensitiveness, morbidity, obsessions, and defeatism. In these troublous times it is easy to become the prey of worry, fear and hypochondria, and therefore it is urgent to keep our minds alert, healthy, eager and efficient. A mind freed from worry and care for a few days will be stimulated to an amazing degree. This tonic to the mind coupled with the mastery of a technical and exacting sport in a setting of natural beauty provides a welcome relief from the exigencies of the high-speed civilization in which we live.

Far away in Asia and Europe there is a thunder of great guns, but the fisherman hears only falling water. In the skies of Norway, England and France airplanes with murderous cargoes soar, seeking the spot on the fair earth where most death may be wrought. The fisherman when he raises his eyes from the crystal eddies and the deep pools, sees only light gossamar clouds, a red-tailed hawk hovering, a flight of wild pigeons, or circling swallows. The water whitening in falls or swirling into the long, clear, rock-bound fastness, overshadowed by maples and dogwood, shuts out the world of war, the trials and tribulations of the common lot, racuous disputes of politicians, and the cheap bickerings of the markets.

NEVADA CITY IN CLOSE WIN OVER 1939 CHAMPIONS

Nevada City defeated Forest Hill 1939 Foothill League leaders, by a score of 6 to 7 on the Forest Hill diamond yesterday. It was a close game all the way, with the score tied for several innings. The score was tied by Bloomquist's home run and pitcher Stintson won his own game in the 8th with another home run. Livesay struck out four men in two innings and Stintson struck out nine men in six innings.

Alex McKenzie, the sensational junior college pitcher from Auburn, will play with Nevada City after the conclusion of his school games next Saturday and will be available for Nevada City's first home game on May 12 (if they have a diamond to play on.)

The league season opens next Sunday and Nevada City will possibly play Rocklin in that city.

The Nevada City team is having a hard time trying to find a suitable place. In the meantime the owners of Cashin's Field, which is south of Nevada City's city limit, are quite willing to allow the use of the property for a diamond until they can secure one in the city limits.

The following names are the Nevada City lineup in batting order: Peney and A. Sullivan, ss; Payne, 3d b; Childers, 1st b; Costa, cf; Bloomquist, 2nd b; Robbins, lf; R. Biggs, rf; I. Sullivan and Engle, c; Livesay and Stintson, p.

These permits are designed to call the attention of forest visitors to the necessity care with fire. In addition to the camp fire permits ,the shovel and axe for automobile or pack train will be required for all persons expecting to build camp fires in the national forest. The minimum sizes for these tools are: Axe, over all length, 26 inches, head, two pounds or more in weight; shovel, over all length, 36 inches, blade eight inches wide.

LAKE PILLSBURY IS OPENED TO FISHING

SACRAMENTO, April 29.—(UP)—The reopening of Lake Pillsbury reservoir in North Lake county to steelhead trout fishing has been sanctioned by the state fish and game commission, director of natural resources, and Gov. Culbert Olson.

The opening countermanded the original order closing the lake and other tributaries of streams emptying into the Humboldt county area to the coastline. The legal fishing limit will be from May 1 to October 31 in this area.

Resort owners on the lake objected to the closing because the big dam at the head of the lake has made it impossible for migratory trout to get in from the sea. It is the only body of water in the affected area which does not contain migratory steelheads.

The five mile-long lake contains chiefly lake trout and rainbow trout.

COST OF SCHOOLS, PER STUDENT, IS LOW IN NEV. CO.

With few exceptions there is no doubt that the tax required to support the public schools is the first item to be questioned whenever the subject of taxation is discussed. No person will question that schools do cost quite a great deal of money and few people know just what amount of money it takes to support the schools, but any critical analysis of costs must be placed on a comparative basis. While it is possible to show that the support of schools is much less per capital than the majority of tax-supported institutions, the only true picture is presented when costs are placed on a basis of school costs in communities of similar size and school enrollment.

The following costs per pupil in average daily attendance for the year 1938-1939, secured from the State Department of Education, apply to schools comparable in size to the Nevada City schools and are ranked from the highest to the lowest in cost per A. D. A.

PROGRAM BRINGS SHOOL WEEK TO CLOSE ON FRIDAY

A speech by Dr. H. E. Chamberlain, chief of the Division of Child Welfare, State Department of Social Welfare, entitled "The Educational Development of the Child," brought to a close the celebration of National Education Week in Nevada City, Friday evening.

Dr. Chamberlain stressed the fact that the capacity of a child to learn is subject to change in the early years. To guard this capacity from harm the audience was advised to foster security in the life of the child above everything else. As contributing factors he named the opportunity to ask questions and the curbing of a common tendency to check children by too mony "don'ts."

The lecture was followed by motion pictures taken during the past year by Mr. Klee and Mr. Kjorlie. The audiance had the experience of seeing their own children at work and play.

Musical selections were enjoyed at the opening of the evening performance. The elementary school orchestra under the direction of Ralph Smith gave two numbers, followed by songs from the chorus under the supervision of Mrs. Marion Libbey. Thomas O. McCraney introduced the speaker.

Sierra county drew the largest amount, or $2,485,-.42, with Nevada and Placer counties next, receiving $1087.55 and $1358.15, respectively. Yuba county was allotted $137.86.

Backfire Against The Recall

Formation of an anti-recall organization is being carried on throughout the state by the supporters of Governor Olson to halt a possible election to test the California new deal's popularity with the voters.

The Olson organization is an admission that the recall is reaching the ballot stage and unless heroic efforts are made by the governor's supporters the voters will be deciding by midsummer whether they want Olson kept on. The strategy is to place Republicans as well as Olson Democrats in the anti-recall organization to make it appear that the movement is non-partisan and that opposition to voting on the governor extends to all political elements.

The number of names signed to the petitions asking for the recall is said by supporters of the movement to be sufficient already to insure an election. The Olson supporters are seeking to prevent additional names from being added, and if possible to get many removed that have already been affixed to the petitions.

California has never voted to recall a governor. In some administrations there have been mutterings of possible recall. Isolated instances of passing around petitions demanding a govenor's ouster by election have been carried on in a limited way. Governor Frank F. Merriam was threatened with possible recall but nothing came of it.

The campaign aginst Governor Olson has gone farther than any previous one. The Olson supporters first became nervous. then worried, and now they are genuinely alarmed. If the recall gets on the ballot, the governor's chances of holding his job become less favorable. Olson has made himself uppopular with many influential groups in the state and they are said to be going down the line almost 100 per cent against him. If they vote as they are now talking, hundreds of thousands will be lined up against him if the recall election day arrives.

Just as the voters have the power to place a governor in office, they possess the equal power to take him out if a majority feel that he isn't doing what they expected of him, or if his policies are contrary to what the rank and file of the people want.

The most alarming tendency of the Olson administration has been extravagance in administration. The second most alarming has been an effort to ram through his legislative programs, regardless of the methods employed, despite opposition in the legislature or by groups representing the people. Threats of purgings, attempted reprisals against those opposing the governor and high-handed methods have raised the cry of dictatorship.

Olson in less than a year and a half has developed into by far the most unpopular governor California has had, as well as the most expensive. A determined campaign is being carried on to get him out. The test is now at hand. Either the recall will succeed or fail, dependent on the developments of the next few weeks. If the recall gets on the ballot, the governor will have to fight much harder than he did to be elected originally in order to save the job that he now holds.—Sacramento Union.

Pied Piper of Hate

Addressing Germany's youth on the occasion of Hitler's 51st birthday, Rudolph Hess, third ranking Nazi, urged millions of impressionable young boys to prepare for the "glorious destiny" of continuing the program to crush all peoples who dare attempt defense of their lives and homes against Nazi invasion. "Don't feel badly," cried Hess, "because you are too young to fight in this war. You wish you could now be in Norway, dropping bombs, sinking ships, directing artillery bombardments. Your day for action will come! When the battle has been won, the world will stand open for you, in which to adventure and to battle —not only the greater Germany but the whole, wide world in which the German people will have fought for a place befitting them!"

Such a hymn of hate, uttered to children by such a pied piper of bloodthirsty rapine, is incredibly revolting to democratic America— where boys are taught that the holdup of a nation at the point of a million bayonets is a crime exactly parallel to the holdup of an individual at the point of a gangster's pistol; where they grow up in pride that the American-Canadian border is the only wholly unfortified border between major nations in the world. And that cry of Nazi Hess must bring strange thoughts to the aged exile of Doorn, who, too, roused young Germany to "world conquest" a generation ago and sent millions to their graves, to insane asylums, to lifelong sightlessness and wheel chair misery. The crime against German boys is that no one is permitted to voice to them the history-proven warning, that they who live by the sword must die by the sword, and that the hymn of international hatred is the hymn of self-destruction.

SOWING THE WIND

I cannot hear the music
For the cannon's sullen roar,
I cannot see the evening star
For flames that sweep the shore;
I cannot catch the perfumed breath
Of rose and mignonette
For acrid fumes from fields where men
Their brotherhood forget.

I cannot trace His footsteps now
Upon the paths of men,
I find no semblance of His grace
In trampled field and glen;
Stilled are the angel songs of joy
That heralded His birth,
His little ones in anguish cry,
"There is no peace on earth."

At midnight's solemn hour there came
A sudden rush of rain
And wild, unshriven winds that wailed,
"Your mission is in vain;
For though your silvery feet may bring
Swift cleansing as they pass,
Tomorrow's sun will find fresh stains
Upon the sodden grass."

The world is filled with war's alarm
Stout hearts grow cold with dread;
Death lurks beneath the moaning waves
And rides the wrack o'er head;
Across the world are sown the winds
Of bitter rage and hate,
And shrouded in the dark unknown
The horrors of the whirlwind wait.

NEW TREATMENTS BY INSULIN-SHOCK CURES THE INSANE

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 29—(U.P.)—Through use of the new insulin shock treatment for serious mental cases, the state of California is now restoring to usefulness persons formerly considered hopelessly insane.

The treatment is used in cases of dementia praecox, which is the affliction of more than half of the 28,000 patients in the state's seven mental hospitals, Gov. Culbert Olson said, in reviewing work of the state department of institutions.

Before discovery of the insulin shock therapy, which was develaped by Dr. Manfred Sakel, a Viennese psychiatrist, the recovery rate for dementia praecox was only eight per cent, the governor said.

Now, however, application of this treatment to cases caught in the early stages yield a recovery rate of 70 per cent.

Olson revealed that heretofore the average dementia praecox patient has required 23 years of hospitalization, ending only with death, and has cost the state $4700. "When we realize," he commented, "that the insulin shock treatment lasts only three months, costs the state only $315, and returns 70 per cent of the patients, fully cured, to their homes, their families, their jobs and completely normal living, then the benefits to society of such a treatment are immediately and fully apparent."

FIFTY-YEAR-OLD PIONEER CANDY STORE IS SOLD

After more than fifty years in the same family, Foley's Confectionery will pass from the ownership of the pioneer Foley family into the hands of Leroy and Shirley Bastian, of Grass Valley.

The candy store that bore his name for half a century was started in 1890 by the late James M. Foley. Upon his death 16 years ago, his son the late Vincent V. Foley, who learned the trade under the tutorship of his father, took over the business.

When he passed away several years ago, Mrs. Foley began the operation of the store and successfully conducted it. Lately she found the work too burdensome and she decided to sell it to the new owners who have had much experience in this line of business.

They plan improvements in the interior of the store and the installation of modern equipment for the manufacture of ice cream, candy and other merchandise handled by the store.

DEATH RATE FIGURE IN COUNTY LOWERED

SACRAMENTO, April 29.—(UP)—Deaths in California during 1939 totalled 77,083 as compared to 76,149 in 1938, an increase of 934, Dr. W. M. Dickie, director of the state department of public health announced today.

Of the total, more than 30,000 occurred in Los Angeles county, 8,748 in San Francisco county, 5,846 in Alameda county and 3,204 in San Diego county.

It is impossible, Dickie said, to provide comparative death rates with any degree of accuracy of any California community in proportion to population until the 1940 census is completed.

In Nevada county deaths during 1939 totalled 224 as compared with 248 in 1938.

STATE WARRANT INTEREST RATES SHOW UPTREND

SACRAMENTO, April 29— (U.P.)—The rate of interest the state of California must pay on its registered warrants continued an upward trend today as the total of outstanding paper again neared $100,000,000.

The latest batch of warrants sold by State Controller Harry B. Riley carried a rate of 2 1-2 per cent interest on an issue of $1,885,809, increasing the total of $97,292,385.

The amount of outstanding warrants exceeded $1000,000,000 in February and is due to go over that figure again in the next few weeks before the amount of tax revenue becomes sufficient to allow previous issues to be retired, Riley said.

The interest rate fluctuates rather generally as the total warrant indebtedness rises and falls. During the February peak on sale carried a rate of 2.85 per cent. The bids decreased abruptly in that month but then started rising again.

The highest interest paid on warrants opened to competitive bidding was four per cent, during the $30 every Thursday pension campaign last year. The lowest was 1-2 of one per cent, coming at a time when the state was in better financial condition than now.

The warrant total does not reflect a true picture of the state's financial condition, Riley pointed out. Taking all factors into consideration, the controller reported the net deficit as $67,000,000 on March 31.

Politically Speaking

By JOHN W. DUNLAP
(United Press Staff Corespondent)

SACRAMENTO, April 29.—(UP)—Any eligible voter would protest violently if the state refused him permission to vote but an interesting quirk of the May 7 presidential primary is the fact that 171,210 voters have disenfranchised themselves from going to the polling booth.

Secretary of State Paul Peek explained the unusual situation arose because only the two major parties have delegations on the ballot. Therefore, any voter registered in the minor parties or who declined to state has no one to vote for, and thus is automatically disqualified.

There are 3,652,274 registered in the state, an all time record. Of this total, there was 2,172,853 Democrats and 1,308,211 Republicans, the other parties, all barred from the election, had the following totals: The Townsendites 24,307, Progressive, 8004; Prohibition 5770; Socialist 4200; (but not a qualified party any longer); Communist, 820; scattering, 772; declined to state, 127,437.

It will be seen the largest group of those not voting come under the "declined to state" column.

Incidentally, the Russian invasion of Finland may have contributed to e drop in registered communists from 1310 in 1938 to 820 in 1940. There are none in 24 counties, Los Angeles has 440, San Francisco, 133, Alameda, 77, and all remaining counties combined only 170.

Thomas Kuchel, the assemblyman from north Orange county, has made an official announcement of his candidacy for state senator from Orange county, succeeding Harry Westover, whom Governor Olson appointed to the superior court bench after the 1939 session.

Kuchel is ending his second term as an assemblyman and will be favored to win the senatorial post. His election would add another anti-Olson Republican to the heavy majority already serving in the senate. It is somewhat of a tossup which faction would succeed Kuchel in the lower house.

Most or all of the conservative democrats who bolted the Olson camp during the last special session will be seeking reelection to the assembly. Some might have dropped out except for the challenge to defy a threatened purge.

Serving in the state legislature has ceased to be as attractive as in the old days of quiet and peaceful sessions. Unemployment relief is a major headache and lawmakers not only have to lose money on special sessions but some had their homes picketed and withstood personal abuse in the controversy.

The special session in May will find for vacancies in the senate and one in the assembly. Senators Westover, Jesse Carter of Shasta county and Andrey Pierovich, Amador county, accepted judgships while Edward Law, Imperial, resigned to take a federal position. In the assembly, Paul Peek resigned to become secretary of state. In addition, Vernon King of Los Angeles is seriously ill and may not attend.

Best estimates are that the session will run three weeks, perhaps a month, with a short extra session for voting money for flood damage repairs. One good deterrent for a longer session will be the hot weather in Sacramento and the imminence of the Republican national convention on June 25.

If the program is cut and dried enough beforehand, and the wrangling not too intense, the whole session may be disposed of in two weeks. However, each of the many investigating committees will be seeking publicity and action on voluminous reports, tending to lengthen the session.

Most of the legislative interim committees are nearing the end of investigations and preparing reports before the session reconvenes May 13. New tax sources were probed by the assembly revenue and taxation committee. One tax which will not be considered further is a boost in telephone levies.

The legislative counsel bureau ruled that the legislature has no power to tax gross receipts of telephone companies because the taxation of public utilities was left to the counties under the Riley-Stewart constitutional amendment.

It would be possible to tax individual telephone calls but this would be passed on to the consumer, a poor political move.

The increase in the bottled beverage industry led to estimates that a one cent tax per six ounce bottle would yield $5,760,000 a year; a 1-10 cent tax, $576,000, and other fractions of a cent in proportion.

Strong opposition came from the bottlers, who complained that federal, state and local taxes already amount to 10 1-2 per cent of the sales volume, more than twice the profit of the entire industry.

UNEMPLOYMENT CHISELERS WILL BE PROSECUTED

SACRAMENTO, April 29—.A state wide clean up of "chiseling" on the unemployment trust fund by employers and employees, ordered by the California Employment Commission, was under way today in 79 Department of Employment offices.

Instructions to the department's local offices througout the state have been issued by R. G. Wagenet, department executive-director, requesting stricter attention to borderline claims which might be fraudulent.

The cleanup was ordered by the commission at a recent meeting in San Francisco, where Wagenet advised the group that a continued check by the department indicated further steps must be taken to eliminate fraudulent practices.

A resolution introduced by A. K. Salz, commissioner representing the small employers, paved the way for the action. The resolution not only instructed department personnel to pay closer attention to borderline claims, but also requested employees and employers to cooperate with the department to stamp out the practice.

"In spite of prosecutions which have resulted in heavy penalties in many instances," Wagenet said, "some claimants continue to certify to unemployment when they are actusually receiving wages higher than their weekly benefit amounts.

"It is to the interests of workers and employers alike to halt this malpractice. Every fraudulent claim means that some worker may be deprived of legitimate benefits at a later date, should funds run low, and from the employer side, experience rating may be adversely affected."

Wagenet said he believed that chiseling could be eliminated through the cooperation of the department, workers, employers, unions, trade organizations, and other interested in furthering the purposes of the unemployement insurance act.

As a result of the resolution, more prosecutions can be expected in the near future, according to the director.

'Claimants obtaining money from the fund to which they are not entitled must learn that sooner or later, the department will discover the fraud, and will institute proceedings," said Waganet. "We cannot and will not tolerate malingering on the fund, which has been contributed in good faith by employee and employer for the benefit of the entire state."

Department records show that claimants have been prosecuted and convicted in Los Angeles, San Francisco, San Pedro, Long Beach, San Jose, Stockton, Hollywood and other California communities, with the heaviest penalties having been given in Stockton, where two offenders were sentenced to a year each in the county jail.
